

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A package adapted to contain a hard copy consumable, the package comprising a protection element, the element being connected to the package and having a surface adapted to be removably connected to a portion of the consumable, such 5 that the element is arranged to be removed from the portion of the consumable by the action of removing the consumable from the package.